

stairway to the basement function room. Notice the recessed lights in the walls of the stairway!

Looking down into the end of the basement. There are recessed speakers in the ceiling, two huge woofers recessed in the wall at the end of the room for a clean, neat appearance.

Here's the view from the back of the function room to the stairs.

Right: Here's the doorway to the stairs that lead up to the parking lot.

This is the area that used to have the shower room and the old walk-in cooler (down towards the back of the bottom photo).

It, like the old party room, will be turned into a quad bedroom.

Here's the old party room.
Like the rest of the house, this has insulation in the ceiling and the walls, new windows, a tight air seal, rugged wallboard and recessed sprinkler heads and energy efficient lighting.
