

Sigma Beta 9-26-09

Note the new parapets that look great!!!

The front stairs are getting rehabbed and ready for concrete base and new granite steps.

The bent railing's removed down to the basement and that area's been cleaned up, too!

Not the clean appearance of the front of the house with new molding. New pillars have been ordered as well.

The window that Corm used to look out is bricked in as part of the makeover. The bricks appear to have been acid-washed and repointed.

The right side of the house will have the fire escape and handicapped accessible ramp, thus the reason for the bricked out windows on the second and third floors.

This angle also provides another profile view of the house and the new roof parapets.

The remade parapets allowed the construction and inclusion of the first ever roof vents in Beta.

Another view of the house from the driveway, taken Saturday 9-26-09