

A sunny day in June 2009 BEFORE the hedge cutting party.

Hedges may have been at their all-time high height.

The volleyball court and net are completely hidden from view at street level.

A sunny day in June 2009 BEFORE the hedge cutting party

Lee Hunsaker, aka “The Last Beta House Father”, on the left, and Victor LaChance, hack into the hedges, Sunday June, 14, 2009.

June 14 Hedge Cutting Party
Now you could see the front of the house.

Sigma Beta on Tues. Sept. 1, 2009

The hedges needed trimming again, and Tom Moulton's crew trimmed the hedges that some thought might never come back and added bark mulch to the landscaping efforts.
Compared to a few months ago, the place looks awesome.

A sunny day in June 2009 BEFORE the hedge cutting party

Tuesday Sept. 1, 2009

You'll note there's no more slate on the roof, no more ugly wires wrapped around the building, and the gutters are being rehabbed. The remaining parapets are leaning and coming down to be rebuilt to keep the style of the house and not be a liability.

June 14 Hedge Cutting Party

Vic LaChance in action.

Tues. Sept. 1, 2009
A few from the front lawn out onto Madbury Road.

June 14 Hedge Cutting Party

Tues. Sept. 1, 2009

