

Basement 11-6-09
Not a disco ball to be found

Framing to the outdoor stairway that leads up to the parking lot from the basement

Home to the nerve center of wires for the junction box, and a host of other things. Located downstairs, next to the door to the outside.

Looking under the basement stairs to the downstairs showers are and where the old Foosball room was. Approximate place where Disco Joe and Russ used to live a few years ago.

From under the stairs to where the showers used to be and then the walk-in was at the far end.

How do you make a shower room look exciting in pictures? You can't! So here's the framing and one of the few murals left over from "The Foose Room" still holding the crossfitchee. The Warrior appears to be behind bars. There was no visible signs left of who drew the Space Warrior. Anyone know?

